	An element with a <code>role</code> that hides child elements contains focusable child elements. This element's role marks child elements as presentational, which hides them from the accessibility tree, but some of these children are focusable, so they can be navigated to, but are not voiced in a screen reader. The role may either be specified by the <code>role</code> attribute or the implicit role based on the element. For example, <code>a</code> elements have an implicit role of <code>link</code>. <code>role=option</code> <code>role=option</code> <code>role=option</code> <code>role=option</code> <code>role=option</code> https://totallifechanges.com/products/e-gift-card <code>role=option</code> <code>role=option</code> <code>role=option</code> <code>role=option</code> <code>role=option</code> https://totallifechanges.com/products/professional-business-launch-pack-test	WCAG 2.2 A 4.1.2 Section 508 (2017) A 4.1.2 ARIA 1.2 Presentational Children Line 1517 2413 2804 3698 5517 ... 	<code>iframe</code> and <code>frame</code> elements must have a <code>title</code> attribute. Add a <code>title</code> attribute or ARIA label to each <code>iframe</code> and <code>frame</code> element (e.g. <code>title='Main Content'</code>). Without a title some screen readers read out the frame filename, which is usually meaningless. 	<code>img</code> elements must have an accessible name. Add an <code>alt</code> attribute describing the image, which screen readers voice instead of the image. Spacer images and purely decorative images should use <code>alt=""</code> without any global ARIA attributes. Do not use <code>alt</code> text containing only spaces since that's voiced as an unlabeled image. ●	Indicating links using only a text color change does not work for color-blind users. Remove the <code>text-decoration:none</code> property from your link styles, or add other style attributes in addition to color changes to make links visible to people without color vision. If the non-color cue only happens when the mouse hovers over the link or when the link receives focus, it is still a failure.	WCAG 2.2 A F73 Section 508 (2017) A F73 1.4.1	13 pages

●	Links must have an accessible name. A link name allows screen readers to voice what the links does. If there is no link content, or the link content is hidden by CSS, screen readers have nothing to read, so read out the URL instead. To add a name do one of the following: - Add text between the <code>a</code> element start and end tags - Add an <code>aria-label</code> attribute - Add an <code>aria-labelledby</code> attribute - Add an <code>img alt</code> attribute labeling the link if it contains an <code>img</code> element	WCAG 2.2 A F89 Section 508 (2017) A F89 2.4.4 2.4.9 4.1.2	27 pages

	If you set any of the colors on the <code>body</code> or <code>a</code> elements you must set all of them. In HTML the color attributes are <code>text</code>, <code>bcolor</code>, <code>link</code>, <code>alink</code> and <code>vlink</code>. In CSS the attributes are <code>color</code> and <code>background-color</code>. Some users have browser defaults set to white text on a black background, so setting one color without setting the others can result in black text on a black background. 	Avoid specifying a new window as the target of a link with <code>target=_blank</code>. Displaying new windows without warning can be very confusing to non-sighted and mobile users. Some screen readers and mobile devices give very little indication a new tab or window has opened. If you cannot avoid displaying a new window, insert an "opens in a new window" warning into the link text or add the warning to the link using a <code>title</code> attribute or <code>aria-describedby</code> attribute. https://totallifechanges.com/ https://totallifechanges.com/account/login https://totallifechanges.com/account/login?return_url=%2Faccount https://totallifechanges.com/collections/beauty https://totallifechanges.com/collections/energy-fitness https://totallifechanges.com/collections/full-body-nutrition https://totallifechanges.com/collections/kits-packs https://totallifechanges.com/collections/merchandise https://totallifechanges.com/collections/new-arrivals https://totallifechanges.com/collections/sales https://totallifechanges.com/collections/shop-all https://totallifechanges.com/collections/weight-management https://totallifechanges.com/pages/events https://totallifechanges.com/pages/insights https://totallifechanges.com/pages/join https://totallifechanges.com/products/e-gift-card https://totallifechanges.com/products/iaso-blu-magic https://totallifechanges.com/products/iaso-original-brew-tea https://totallifechanges.com/products/nutraburst https://totallifechanges.com/search This issue was found on another 122 pages. 	Ensure that text and background colors have a 7:1 contrast ratio. Some users find it hard to read light gray text on a white background, dark gray text on a black background and white text on a red background. - The contrast ratio should be 4.5 or more for 18 point text, or larger - 	Link uses general text like 'Click Here' which doesn't explain link purpose. Screen reader users often tab from one link to the next, or use the 'Next Link' command. Moving between links labelled 'click here' sounds like 'Click here, tab, click here, tab, click here'. Change the link text, or add an <code>aria-label</code>, so the link makes sense when read without the surrounding text. 	Many people with cognitive disabilities (including dyslexia) find text styled with <code>text-align: justify</code> hard to read. Justified text aligned to both the left and the right margins creates rivers of white running down the page due to extra word spacing. This makes justified text difficult to read for some people. The best way to avoid the problem is avoid justified text. https://totallifechanges.com/account/register	WCAG 2.2 AAA F88 1.4.8 Line 3918	1 pages
